Introduction

Population projections for Virginia and the state's counties and cities are presented in this report. They replace projections reported in Population Projections—Virginia Counties and Cities, 1980-2000, published January, 1980. The projections are presented by five year increments for the years 1985 to 2000. County and city figures for 1990 and 2000 are displayed by male and female, and white and non-white for five year age groups.

Highlights

The population projections indicate that Virginia's future will be strongly influenced by the following trends:

Population Growth

Virginia's population growth rate is expected to exceed that of the nation from 1980 to 2000.

Virginia's population is projected to increase by 1,304,900 persons, or 24.4 percent, between 1980 and 2000.

Of this 1,304,900 person increase, approximately 801,000 will result from migration and 503,900 from natural increase.

Birth rates are projected to increase slightly from 1979-1981 levels by the year 2000. White and non-white birth rates are expected to equalize by the end of the century.

The state's non-white population is projected to increase to 24.0 percent (from 20.9 percent in 1980) of total population by the year 2000.

Age Distribution

The portion of Virginia's population in the 20 to 64 and 65 and over age groups will increase by the year 2000 while the portion in the 0 to 19 age group will decline.

The state will experience a slight increase in school aged population (5 to 19) by the year 2000.

The state's working population (22 to 64) will increase almost one-third by 2000.

Geographic Distribution

Major areas of growth will be located in or adjacent to metropolitan areas and include a number of localities within Planning Districts Seven, Eight, Ten, Fifteen and Sixteen.

Areas of low growth include Planning Districts Thirteen, Fourteen, Nineteen and Twenty-two.

Counties and cities will experience significantly different rates of growth. Counties will grow at much faster rates than cities.

Virginia's urban population will increase significantly; however, the central city portion is expected to decline.

Non-whites will tend increasingly to concentrate in metropolitan areas (central cities and surrounding metropolitan and suburban counties).

Spotsylvania County is projected to show the highest rate of growth during the next two decades, whereas Fairfax County will experience the greatest gain in population.

Table 1 footnotes

... Denotes no change or change of less than 0.1 percent but greater than −0.1 percent.

a Bristol annexed 5,267 persons from Washington County on January 1, 1974

b Radford annexed 329 persons from Montgomery County on January 1, 1977. Effective December 31, 1980, Radford annexed approximately 272 people from Montgomery County. Since the Census Bureau has not yet adjusted the 1980 count to reflect this change, 1980 population is approximate.

c Roanoke City annexed 13,522 persons from Roanoke County on January 1, 1976.

d Winchester annexed 4,786 persons from Frederick County on December 31, 1970.

e Effective December 31, 1980, a boundary change transferred approximately 1,093 people from Fairfax County to Fairfax City. Since the Census Bureau has not yet adjusted the 1980 count to reflect this change, 1980 population is approximate.

f Manassas and Manassas Park became independent cities on May 1, 1975 and June 1, 1975, respectively. Historical population figures for Prince William County have been adjusted to reflect this change.

g Lynchburg annexed 1,486 persons from Bedford County and 9,071 persons from Campbell County, for a total of 10,557 persons, effective January 1, 1976.

h Petersburg annexed 4,629 persons from Prince George County and 3,392 from Dinwiddie County, for a total of 8,021 persons, effective January 1, 1972.

i Nansemond and Suffolk Cities consolidated effective January 1, 1974.

j Poquoson became an independent city on June 1, 1975. Historical population figures for York County have been adjusted to reflect this change.

Summary

The population projections presented in this publication represent conditional forecasts of the future. The projections are the most probable occurrences based upon current information and a specific set of assumptions about the future.

These projections are not intended to be optimal growth trends or goals for any county or city; nor are they intended to constrain an area. They are meant to provide insight to the user as to what could occur in the absence of any major change in policy. The projections should also serve as common reference points in the planning, development, and implementation of state agency programs and facilities.

Like any other population projections, these projections are characterized by differing degrees of reliability. Generally, smaller areas have a greater probability of error and longer projection periods are less accurate. Therefore, projections for 1990 are considered to be more reliable than those for 2000, and projections for the state and planning districts are considered to be more reliable than individual county and city figures.

In addition to the information contained in this publication, other detailed projections are available from the Department of Planning and Budget upon request. These include:

County and city projections by five-year cohorts, race, and sex for the years 1981 through 1990 and for 1995, 2000, 2005, 2010, 2015, and 2020.

1981-1990 county and city projections for individual ages 0-24 and 60-69 and the following age groups by sex and race and by county and city for the entire population:
